PROFILE

From Word Docs to WordPress: I've been writing for public audiences for more than 20 years. I first started as a spoken word artist based out of Sacramento, which eventually landed me a gig as a live radio show host and news journalist. I've done freelance work in both prose and poetry, and have most recently ventured into the world of tech writing. The first website I designed was my own in 2008; as a performance artist, having a user-friendly and aesthetically pleasing website was an absolute must. Since then, I've designed a variety of different sites for a wide range of clients and every single one was a blast!
